The concept behind the development of BS 9999 and BS 7974 is that technical guidance on fire safety is provided at three different levels. This permits a design approach to be adopted that corresponds to the complexity of the building and to the degree of flexibility required. The three levels are as follows:

BS 9999 allows for a slightly increased travel distance giving 20 metres in the case of a single means of escape and 50 metres in the case of additional exits. (ADB 2 specifies travel distance of 18 and 45 m respectively). Both documents have the limit of single exit permitted for < 60 people or <30 in the event of assisted evacuation being required. BS 9999 has in part superseded BS 5588, the only parts of which are still current are those that relate to residential properties. BS 9999 has to be applied in its entirety, you cannot dip into it for piecemeal solutions.

Although some fire safety knowledge is required, BS 9999 could be a useful tool for many designers.
